

Daniel Don Louis Bigelow Barn

To view this barn at 445 West Main Canyon Road, one must look off to the south of the road. It is down a little side road and sits near a spring.

The barn was built about 80 years ago by Don Bigelow of red pine. However at one time the barn was used as a cheese and butter creamery, and was run by a farmer, Alfred Ford, Jr. and his wife Theresa. He later bought a grocery store which he ran for 40 years.

The spring near the barn was the main baptism spot for the people of Wallsburn for many years.

Mr. Loren Smart is the present owner of the barn and has owned it for about 30 years.

Don Bigelow Barn

To view this barn at 445 West Main Canyon Road, Wallsburg, one must look off to the south of the main road. It is down a little side road and sits near a spring.

The barn was built about 80 years ago by Don Bigelow of red pine.

However at one time the barn was used as a cheese and butter creamery, and was run by a farmer, Alfred Ford, Jr. and his wife Theresa. He later bought a grocery store which he ran for 40 years. The spring near the barn was the main baptismal water for the people of Wallsburg for many years.

Mr. Loren Smart is the present owner of the barn and has owned it for about 30 years.

Information from Reed Ford.

To view this barn at 445 West Main Canyon Road, one must look off to the south of the road. It is down a little side road and sits near a spring.

The barn was built about 80 years ago by Don Bigelow of red pine. However, at one time the barn was used as a cheese and butter creamery and was run by a farmer, Alfred Ford, Jr. and his wife.
Thereafter, he later bought a grocery store which he ran for 40 years.

The spring near the barn was the main water source for the people of Wallisburg for many years.

Mr. Loren Smart is the present owner of the barn and has owned it for about 30 years.